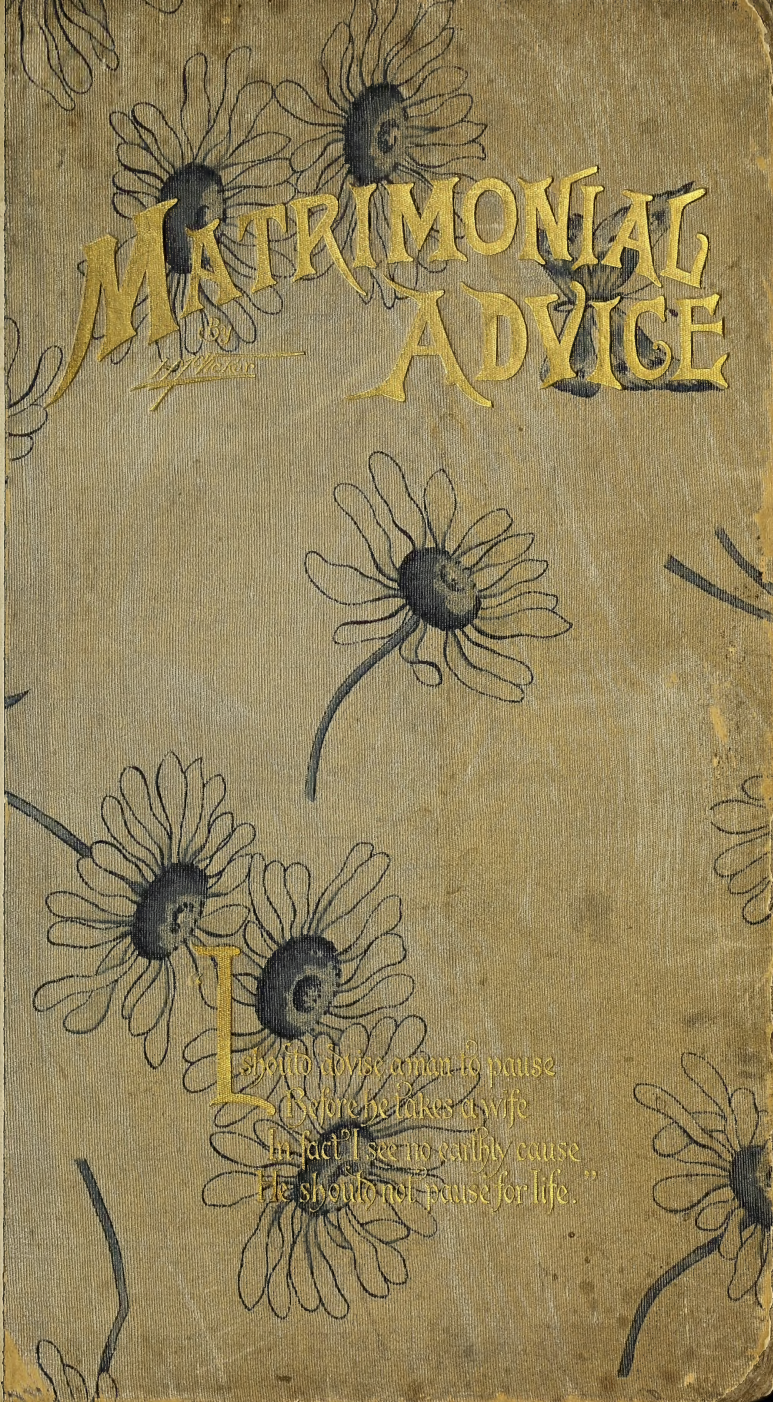
MATRIMONIAL ADVICE

By Weston



"I should advise a man to pause
Before he takes a wife
In fact I see no earthly cause
He should not pause for life."

Advice to the Man.

Dont

give little

Suppers.

But if by some ill luck it chance
That marriage be your fate
Eschew, my friend, the masqué dance
And do not sup too late.

Don't bet on horse racing.

For any bachelor who can
Get credit for his board
The race course goes – a married man
Such things cannot afford.

D'ONT FREQUENT STAGE DOORS.

Forget those things that most before
Would charm your tired eyes
Forget the stage's little door,
Forget the tempting flies.

Dont have a friend of the family.

Wife

Friend

Husband

Your dearest friend also forget.
He's safer as a foe
You may be sure he loves you - yet -
She's part of you you know.

Dont think your wife an angel Because she Looks Like one.

And tho' you may be tempted sore
(For such is lovers wont)
Your wife as angel to adore
Take my advice and — Dont.

DON'T RATS.
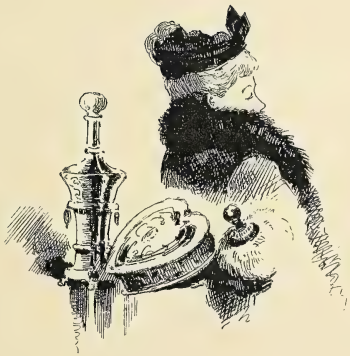
M.Y.C.

And lastly tho' you own a yacht
Dont ever go to sea
For Truly hopeless were your lot
If sea. Sick you should be.

Advice to the Woman.

Always look your best.

Mark well, ye fair, what follows, lest
Your husband lose his fire
Be always sure to look your best.
He pays for your attire.



DONT TELL YOUR HUSBAND THAT HE looks like THE DEVIL, ESPECIALLY WHEN HE DOES.

And by the way it will not do
Besides 'tis far from civil
To tell your lord, however true,
He's looking "like the devil".

Dont take 35 minutes
to say good bye.

In leaving friend, however kind.
Will take an hour or more
Trust me. your husband soon will find
Such parting scenes a bore

BEWARE OF YOUR BEST FRIEND.

GEO. M. ALLEN & CO. N.Y.

Your best friend if you'd live in ease
Should be your friend no more
Your bonnets may not always please
While hers are sure to score:

Dont
even playfully
remind your Husband
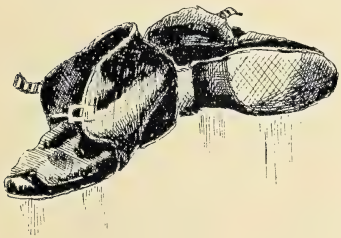
that everything
was bought with
your money
including himself.

Don't tell him even in a jest
How much your money buys
He knows whose shekels fill the chest
And — Jesting is unwise

Dont Nag.

Once more, although through lapse of mind
(Few common sense can brag.)
Your lord his rubbers leave behind,
For Heaven's sake don't nag.



you could come.
